London, August 1 .-- Although five of the great European powers, Austria, England, France, Germany and Russia are at war and millions of men on land and sea are under arms and ready to strike, the developments of prime importance were few today. The cutting of the German telegraph and telephone connections and the severance of the German Trans-Atlantic cable, virtually cutting Germany off from communication with other countries. Reports from France, Belgium, Holland and Russia however, showed that Germany's army was steadily moving forward east and west and that the advance posts were in contact with the opposing Russian and French armies.

In England preparations were rapidly completed for naval activities after the declaration of war last night, but the authorities would not permit any leakage of news as to military or naval movements. Several German steamships in British waters, including the Belgia, with seventy-three German Reservists and a quantity of food stuffs on board, were declared prizes of war. No Cause for a Panic

There is no reason why this nation should suffer any serions inconvenience in business as a result of the war now being waged in Europe.

True there have been enormous withdrawals of gold from this country by European nations and people. In fact before a general European war was considered by the public generally as a probability the shipments of gold abroad were so heavy as to cause comment among financiers and writers on financial affairs.

The heavy shipment of gold abroad, however, exerted no appreciable effect on business in this country and it was only after hostilities were actually begun that any fear at all was expressed that the money market of this nation might as a consequence, suffer some depression and even then such a fear was expressed only by the most timid of bankers and business men.

The treasury of the United States is in excellent condition to furnish relief for any real financial stringency resulting from the withdrawal of money by Europe. Already the national government has arranged to place five hundred millions of dollars in the great financial centers to relieve any strain brought about by heavy withdrawals.

The closing of the New York stock exchange was a very wise precautionary measure on the part of American financiers because it precluded the possibility of flooding the country with American securities held in Europe.

The happening of such a contingency would have worked to the detriment of this nation in two ways. First it would have taken an enormous sum of money abroad and second it would have resulted in beating down the price of American securities, especially industrial stocks to a figure far below their real worth. This would have destroyed confidence of American financiers holding American securities and would in west portion. have had only one result—a real panic.

Provision has been made to prevent the frantic offering of day unsettled, probably local thun-American securities in this country at ruinous prices by Europe, the government is amply able to provide the means to meet any unusual drain from other causes and has made arrangement to do so, the nation never enjoyed better crop prospects nor better prospect for good prices for food stuffs and all that the bankers and business men need do is to go along in the even tenor of their way and there will not be a ripple on the surface.

The only danger the business of the nation faces now is not from any real cause but from some innocent but weakkneed brethren among the bankers who may start to lock up money without rythm or reason. If any financiers should undertake to bring on a panic for the sake of profiting in their own business at the expense of the business of the nation they stand an excellent chance to be hung "higher Haigman" because the national government will not permit any criminal disturbance of the nation's business without calling the offender to the bar of justice.

All that business needed was not real relief because their was no real ill menacing but a little encouragement from the national government and having received substantial encouragement, the panicky brothers among the bankers and finan- cal showers. ciers need only to be sat upon.

Present conditions and, now that the inside facts are known to the people, the confidence everywhere existing is abundant proof that there never was in this country any real cause for a panic.

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

The cause that underlies a case of delirium must first be found, because the treatment will vary in accordance with it. Few of us are called on to deal with delirium tremens or with the delirium of starvation or with that terrible form known as acute delirious mania, which generally ends in death. But the delirium that accompanies typhoid fever. pneumonia or the acute infectious fevers of childhood is of common occurrence, and it is well to know that much can be done to prevent it or to bring relief after it has gone and until a doctor can be secured. Sedative treatment, such as a warm the head, will often ward off an attack, but when there is great prostration of strength stimulation is usually necessary. Delirium is always exhausting. See that the patient's strength is kept up as far as possible and never leave a delirious patient alone, even for a minute. There are too many cases of sick peo-

The second regular examination Examination of Fayette County

JULY 1912 TO JAN. 1914. BY E. K. PARRETT, STATE EXAMINER. A. E. HENKLE HAS SERVED AS AUDITOR DURING THE PERIOD OF THIS EXAMINATION...

RECORDS AND FILES

All records required to be kept by this office are kept in MOST EXCELLENT MANNER, the greater portion be typewritten.

The Commissioner's journal, kept by the Auditor as cler of that Board, IS EXCEPTIONALLY WELL KEPT, the sul ject matter set out in detail, and each action taken by the Com missioners indicated by proper headings in red, making a searce of the records easy.

The files of all vouchers and other documents in the hand of the auditor are well kept and all properly docketed, and numbered to correspond with warrants issued.

SETTLEMENTS. The settlements for the tax years 1911 and 1912 were hand led by your examiners.

The several settlement sheets were checked and verified and the distributions followed forward into the ledger a count of the taxing districts.

This department of the Auditor's work was found to PRACTICALLY PERFECT, it being the practice in this of fice to recheck, verify, and PROVE EVERY STEP in the won from the making up of the Duplicate to the final distribution of the funds.

The highest commendation is due Auditor HENKLE at his efficient office force for their excellent work.

. The above is from the State Examiner's report, and is 0 fered to you for your consideration.

I am asking for your support at the Primary Election August 11, 1914, for RENOMINATION to the Office of Count

I am grateful for your past support and trust that my serv ices will merit a renomination and election.

PERMIT Has Proved the Big Success We Predicted

Three months ago we announced the new PERMIT Process—the greatest achievement of recent years in cigar-making.

We explained that this improved, scientific method of ageing and blending brings out more mellowness, mildness and flavor of the leaf-gives greater smoothness to the blendthan is possible under the old ways of manufacture.

The greatly increased demand for PERMIT during the past three months shows that smokers have been quick to appreciate the remarkable new PERMIT quality.

The original "shampoo," as this traveler's detailed account and other allusions for long after his time show, was very much what we call "massage" now. It was from India that the word really came, and it represents the imperative of a verb meaning to knead.

BODY, SOUL AND ALL.

The Case of an Inexperienced Carver Driven to Desperation.

A bashful young bachelor was invited to a dinner party and was paired off with the prettiest lady. It was a famfly party, and his seat was in front of any carving in his life. Furthermore, there was in addition to the chicken a fried sole in front of his place, and he was also expected to help to the fish.

He made the best of the carving by asking the lady at his side what she preferred.

"A little of the sole, please," she replied.

He began to cut a slice from the breast of the fowl.

"No. no." she whispered; "the sole." Now where was the sole of a ben? He thought a whole minute, then he attacked the wing. "The sole, the sole!" cried the lady.

He looked for the feet, but no soles were left, so he tried a drumstick. But she still shook her hend and murmur- prices paid. H. R. Rodecker, both ed: "You don't understand me. I only phones. Office: Post Office Lobby. want a piece of the sole."

 PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Night Sweats. Night sweats indicate a debility and disturbance of the nervous system. The debility may be a result of tuberculosis infection, eigarette smoking, enlarged heart with feeble action, nervous exhaustion, change of life in women and too much covering during sleep

The remedy is to remove the cause if that can be determined. Take a quick cold wet rub in the morning and use a rough towel for drying. It is not natural nor normal to sweat during sleep, and if this keeps up you will feel tired in the morning, even if you do not now

There are some remedies that will belp to prevent night sweats, but they need to be used with care, and the cause of the sweats should be known before taking any medicine.

London, August 1 .-- Although five of the great European powers, Austria, England, France, Germany and Russia are at war and millions of men on land and sea are under arms and ready to strike, the developments of prime importance were few today. The cutting of the German telegraph and telephone connections and the severance of the German Trans-Atlantic cable, virtually cutting Germany off from communication with other countries. Reports from France, Belgium, Holland and Russia however, showed that Germany's army was steadily moving forward east and west and that the advance posts were in contact with the opposing Russian and French armies.

In England preparations were rapidly completed for naval activities after the declaration of war last night, but the authorities would not permit any leakage of news as to military or naval movements. Several German steamships in British waters, including the Belgia, with seventy-three German Reservists and a quantity of food stuffs on board, were declared prizes of war. No Cause for a Panic

There is no reason why this nation should suffer any serious inconvenience in business as a result of the war now being waged in Europe.

True there have been enormous withdrawals of gold from this country by European nations and people. In fact before a general European war was considered by the public generally as a probability the shipments of gold abroad were so heavy as to cause comment among financiers and writers on financial affairs.

The heavy shipment of gold abroad, however, exerted no appreciable effect on business in this country and it was only after hostilities were actually begun that any fear at all was expressed that the money market of this nation might as a consequence, suffer some depression and even then such a fear was expressed only by the most timid of bankers and business men.

The treasury of the United States is in excellent condition to furnish relief for any real financial stringency resulting from the withdrawal of money by Europe. Already the national government has arranged to place five hundred millions of dollars in the great financial centers to relieve any strain brought about by heavy withdrawals.

The closing of the New York stock exchange was a very wise precautionary measure on the part of American financiers because it precluded the possibility of flooding the country with American securities held in Europe.

The happening of such a contingency would have worked to the detriment of this nation in two ways. First it would have taken an enormous sum of money abroad and second it day and Thursday, except probable would have resulted in beating down the price of American securities, especially industrial stocks to a figure far below their real worth. This would have destroyed confidence of American financiers holding American securities and would have had only one result—a real panic.

Provision has been made to prevent the frantic offering of American securities in this country at ruinous prices by Europe, the government is amply able to provide the means to meet any unusual drain from other causes and has made arrangement to do so, the nation never enjoyed better crop prospects nor better prospect for good prices for food stuffs and all that the bankers and business men need do is to go along in the even tenor of their way and there will not be a ripple on the surface.

The only danger the business of the nation faces now is not from any real cause but from some innocent but weakkneed brethren among the bankers who may start to lock up money without rythm or reason. If any financiers should undertake to bring on a panic for the sake of profiting in their own business at the expense of the business of the nation they stand an excellent chance to be hung "higher Haigman" because the national government will not permit any criminal Los Angeles ... disturbance of the nation's business without calling the offender to the bar of justice.

All that business needed was not real relief because their was no real ill menacing but a little encouragement from the national government and having received substantial encouragement, the panicky brothers among the bankers and financiers need only to be sat upon.

Present conditions and, now that the inside facts are known to the people, the confidence everywhere existing is abundant proof that there never was in this country any real cause for a panic.

Alfred Norton Jones Hargrave's butler Florence Gray, Hargrave's daughter Florence LaBadie The Princess Olga Jim Norton, a newspaper reporter James Cruze Susan, Florence Gray's companion Lila Chester Frank Farrington SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING EPISOD

> Hargrave, 17 years before the story opens, left his only child on the doorstep of a girl's school. He is a traitor member of the "Black Huntary of the Ohio Teachers' Reading dred", a Russian secret society. He has become a millionaire. The band discovers him and knowing this, he plans to disappear with his now eighteen year old daughter, Florence, and a million dollars he has drawn out of the banks. The million dollars disappears mysteriously. grave, with his house surrounded, is forced to make o desperate escape in a balloon which, later, is found a wreck floating on the sea.

Episode No. 2. - "The False Friend" - Florence arrives in the city to find her father gone, no one knows where. Jones, his butler, discloses a mysterious letter charging her to trust him completely. JULY 1912 TO JAN. 1914. BY E. K. PARRETT, STATE EXAMINER. A. E. HENKLE HAS SERVED AS AUDITOR DURING THE PERIOD OF THIS EXAMINATION ...

RECORDS AND FILES

All records required to be kept by this office are kept in MOST EXCELLENT MANNER, the greater portion being typewritten.

The Commissioner's journal, kept by the Auditor as clerk of that Board, IS EXCEPTIONALLY WELL KEPT, the sul ject matter set out in detail, and each action taken by the Com missioners indicated by proper headings in red, making a search of the records easy.

The files of all vouchers and other documents in the hand of the auditor are well kept and all properly docketed, and numbered to correspond with warrants issued.

PERMIT Has Proved the Big Success We Predicted

Three months ago we announced the new PERMIT Process—the greatest achievement of recent years in cigar-making.

We explained that this improved, scientific method of ageing and blending brings out more mellowness, mildness and flavor of the leaf-gives greater smoothness to the blendthan is possible under the old ways of manufacture.

The greatly increased demand for PERMIT during the past three months shows that smokers have been quick to appreciate the remarkable new PERMIT quality.

 PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Night Sweats.

Night sweats indicate a debility and disturbance of the nervous system. The debility may be a result of tuberculosis infection, cigarette smoking, enlarged heart with feeble action, nervous exhaustion, change of life in women and too much covering during sleep.

The remedy is to remove the cause if that can be determined. Take a quick cold wet rub in the morning and use a rough towel for drying. It is not natural nor normal to sweat during sleep, and if this keeps up you will feel tired in the morning, even if you do not now.

There are some remedies that will help to prevent night sweats, but they need to be used with care, and the cause of the sweats should be known before taking any medicine.
